Anti-Histamine
Research Proves
To Be Favorable

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
NEW YORK — (AP) — Two studies were made public today in which doctors reported favorable effects on common colds from use of anti-histamines.

Whether antihistamines—which are now sold by drug stores without doctors' prescriptions—are good for colds is the basis of widespread medical controversies in the United States.

The studies announced today do not claim that colds are cured, but that some of the symptoms are improved, with the result that the victim of the cold suffers less—sometimes much less.

One of the reports is by four American physicians in the International Archives of Allergy and Applied Immunology, of Basel, Switzerland. They report trials of an antihistamine on 5600 persons on the eastern seaboard of the United States last winter. Also for comparison an additional 1,500 were treated with some other remedies and 1,200 with placebos, which were harmless substances, known not to help colds. But the takers did not know this.

The doctors reported that relief of symptoms with an antihistamine treatment was 72.7 per cent, which was 13.4 per cent better than with the other cold remedies and 18.5 per cent better than the placebos.

The other report covers last winter's tests on 1,008 inmates of the Lawton Reformatory in Washington, D. C. These were divided into two nearly equal groups, one receiving an antihistamine and the other an imitation. The report said that not even the doctors know which inmates received the medicine and which the placebo.

The report said that contrary to some previous studies, antihistamine was useful for relieving symptoms even long after the cold had started. It concluded that the antihistamine "does alleviate some of the symptoms and, in some instances, shortens the course of the disease by varying degrees."

Selling Spree
Knocks Down
Grain Prices

CHICAGO—(AP)—A late selling flurry knocked prices down on the board of trade today after grains had displayed a firming trend most of the day.

Most contracts of all cereals fell under the previous close. Earlier, gains had ranged to a couple of cents, all soybean deliveries eluding out new seasonal peaks.

The early upturn was characterized mainly by a lack of selling pressures rather than any urgent demand. But when selling expanded, it found the market's price structure vulnerable.

Selling followed an item on the financial news ticker quoting Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyoming) as saying that, as far as he was concerned, a speedy slapping on of price controls was being talked about chiefly in newspaper stories.

The prospect of immediate price controls has been bullish on grains because of a feeling prices would work up to ceiling levels, grain men said.

Receipts were: Wheat 12 cars, corn 413, oats 23, rye none, barley, 49, soybeans 48.

Two, Including
Pastor, Drop
Dead in Church

CHICAGO — (AP) — The Rev. Howard C. Fulton, 59, died on his pulpit as he finished his sermon, and a friend who rushed to his side also was fatally stricken a few minutes later.

Mr. Fulton, pastor of the Belden Avenue Baptist church for 20 years, collapsed as he concluded his sermon, "The Touch of God." He apparently succumbed to an attack of heart disease.

His friend, Henry F. Weiler, 52, was stricken in the pastor's office while talking to a physician. Weiler was the church treasurer for 31 years. The physician said he died of a heart attack, apparently brought on by the shock of the minister's death.

Oregon Quaker Oats Plant Idled by Machinists' Strike

Oregon — Twenty-one members of Local 829, International Association of Machinists, threw up a picket line here Friday around the Quaker Oats Central shop.

The machinists, according to union president B. F. Stitzel, are receiving $1.25 an hour. They're asking a 25-cent hourly increase.

Although the company president, T. H. Simmons, could not be reached for comment, it was reported the firm had countered with a 15-cent offer. The last contract expired Dec. 22.

There was no indication that a settlement was in sight. Meanwhile, the mechanical end of the central machine shop for Quaker Oats plants in other parts of the country remained shut down.

Amboy Coffee Is Free—But Dime To Polio Fund

Amboy — While neighboring towns are raising the price of coffee, they're giving it away in Amboy.

At least, coffee is going for the asking an hour each day. It's part of Amboy's plan for a successful March of Dimes to aid past, present and potential polio victims.

You see, instead of paying for a cup of coffee at the Amboy cafe, operated by Carleton (Red) Russell, you put the dime in a pasteboard iron lung.

Russell conducts the coffee hour for the March of Dimes between 3 and 4 o'clock each afternoon.

If You Intend To Seek Office, Hurry, Hurry!

Score to Date: Commissioners 8, For Mayorship, 2

Last call!
If you intend to run for mayor, city commissioner or police magistrate, you have until tomorrow (Tuesday) at 5 p. m. to file your petitions with City Clerk Wayne Smith.

So far, there are two avowed candidates for mayor, eight for the four seats on the city council and only one for police magistrate.

Unless additional candidates get into the mayoralty race the Feb. 27 primary will be only a formality for Mayor J. Fred Hofmann and William (Bill) Slothower, since the top two candidates will oppose the other in the city election April 17.

List Candidates

The eight candidates for the city council are Joseph Valle, currently commissioner of streets; George Lindquist, commissioned of public property; Carl Plowman, finance commissioner, and political newcomers Glen Laidig, Kenneth A. Rubey, William Wickler, Charles L. Ballard and Mrs. Maude Badie.

Forrest Shawger, now commissioner of public health and safety, is the only member of the present council who has not decided to run for re-election.

Formality Also

The primary will be a formality for the eight city council candidates, too, for the top eight in the primary will appear on the April 17 city election ballot.

Although no formal petitions have been filed to date for the office of police magistrate, incumbent Albert N. Kennedy told The Telegraph today he'd file his papers tomorrow. The office is conducted on a fee basis, with most of the cases paying the police magistrate $4.

Will Get $1,200

Commissioners will get $1,200 a year under a recently-enacted ordinance, although their present pay is $900. State law provides for a higher salary for commissioners when the town's population passes the 10,000 mark. Councilmen formally proclaimed the population increase and raised salaries at a November meeting.

The same law will enable the next mayor to draw $1,500 annually instead of $1,200. The mayor also will get $900 for acting as liquor commissioner instead of $600.

Tomorrow is also the deadline for city policemen and firemen to file their petitions for a referendum on a quasi-civil service proposition.

Want Board Role

City policemen and firemen will ask Dixon voters to approve the removal of the jurisdiction of their departments from the city council to an appointed board of fire and police commissioners. The board, if the proposition passes, will rule on hirings, firings and promotions instead of council members.

30 More War Dead On Casualty Lists

Washington, Jan. 22—(AP)—The defense department today identified 452 additional casualties of the Korean war.

Son of Knute Rockne Shot as Prowler, Condition Critical

Wichita, Kans., Jan. 22—(AP)—William D. Rockne, son of the famous Notre Dame football coach Knute Rockne, was reported in critical condition today from pistol wounds.

Officers said he was shot after he forced entry into a Wichita home Saturday night.

The sheriff said Rockne twice tried to enter Novacek's home and the second time succeeded in getting in. The officer quoted Novacek as saying he struck Rockne with a board and ordered him to remain until police arrived. Instead Rockne fled and Novacek fired at him three times with a pistol, the sheriff reported.

'We Can Avoid Disaster,' Gen. Bradley States

Tells Congress Defense Plans 'Are Sufficient'

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Gen. Omar Bradley told congress today the military force the United States is planning "is sufficient in my opinion to avert disaster for our country."

Testifying before the senate preparedness subcommittee, the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff said bombing of American cities might be possible but "there is little real danger now of the continental United States being invaded and overrun so far as we can see."

Bradley said U. S. air defenses, "combined with the efforts of the Canadians," could avert "complete disaster" but "if a determined enemy is willing to expend the effort, some bombers will get through."

Bradley was before the committee to endorse the Defense Department's proposals for drafting of 18-year-olds and extending the period of draft service from 21 to 27 months.

Briefs Committee

He gave the committee in addition a briefing on how the services plan to meet any attack.

"The initial retaliation against an enemy by strategic bombing will be provided if the air power and the necessary army and navy support to seize and hold the bases from which to operate are in our hands the moment an emergency arises," he said.

"The closer the bases are to the enemy the easier it will be, and the less costly it will be, to provide a sustained retaliation air attack."

"Our strategy does not include a retraction of all our military power to the continental limits of the North American continent when we are attacked."

Some senators are questioning the proposal to draft 18 year olds.

Freight Cars Leave Rails at Pearl City

Pearl City, Ill., Jan. 22—(AP)—About 30 cars of an east bound Chicago Great Western freight train were derailed and wrecked near Pearl City yesterday afternoon. No one was injured.

About 20 of the cars overturned in a ditch. Merchandise was strewn along the right of way. State highway 73 was blocked for about 10 hours by the wreckage.

Chicago Great Western railroad officials in Chicago said service on the main line probably would be restored this afternoon. Meanwhile, they said, service is being re-routed on the Illinois Central lines from South Freeport to Portage, Ill., a station nearby.

Three Countries Hit; Many Dead Caught in Homes

Geneva, Switzerland—(AP)— The death toll stood at 141 with many still missing today as rescue workers in three Alpine countries continued to dig through snow and debris left by disastrous weekend avalanches.

Austria had at least 66 dead, Switzerland 60 and Italy 15 as a result of great slides crashing down Alpine slopes for the past three days. Whole villages were buried, houses broken like kindling wood and families entombed by the thundering snow.

Others Missing

The semi-official Swiss news agency said that the disaster struck at least 15 localities in Switzerland. Besides the 60 dead, it said, 20 others were missing and another 20 were reported seriously injured, many of them caught beneath roofs crumpled by the weight of the snow.

Thousands of British and American sports lovers were temporarily isolated at swank ski resorts. Among the marooned were 500 British and Americans at Davos, Switzerland.

Set Avalanche Record

The unusual number of slides resulted from heavy snows last week. Avalanches are not uncommon in the Alps, but the weekend number was believed a record.

Throughout the night rescue workers toiled feverishly in an effort to save some 14 men and women still buried at the Swiss village of Vals, 4,000 feet up in the Alps.

Thirty-On Buried

A great mass of snow roared down into the little hamlet Saturday night, knocking over five houses and burying 31 persons. Twelve were brought out alive yesterday and five dead, including three children.

The village was cut off from communication with the outside world most of yesterday, but the army of rescue workers reached it late in the day.

Tragic casualty stories filtered in over disrupted communications lines.

Rescuers at Zuoz, near St. Moritz, heard the crying of children, buried in a deep mound. Three dead children finally were brought out. Two women remained buried.

Another slide covered a hillside house at Klosters, near Davos. Two of the six occupants were killed.

Fresh slides made rescue work hazardous. At Zernze, a roadworker was buried. Six other men lost their lives trying to dig him out.

Crash Seriously Injures Chicago Woman Sunday

A Chicago woman is in only "fair" condition today in KSB hospital following an auto crash at 11 a. m. Sunday six miles east of the intersection of highways 52 and 30 north of Amboy.

The extent of injuries of Mrs. Margo Wolff, 46, could not be determined Monday. She was taken by ambulance to the hospital after the car in which she was a passenger went out of control and crashed into a tree.

State police said the auto was driven by her husband, Alfred Wolff, 54.

Wolff was not hospitalized. His auto was going west on highway 30 prior to the crash.

State Police Officers Donald Ramsdell, Chana, and Cecil Byrd, Polo, investigated the crash.

Trygve Lie Sees 'Less Fear' of War in Europe

New York, Jan. 22—(AP)— U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie, back from a trip to Europe, says there is "less fear of imminent world war" there than there was last summer.

Lie, who returned by plane yesterday, said the increased hope that a conflagration can be avoided is due partly to the United Nations intervention in Korea and the U. N.'s "United Action for Peace."

Less Goods for Civilians as Defense Production Speeds Up

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Sounds like double-talk: inventory control, priorities, allocations, horizontal cuts.

But they all mean steps taken by the government to push more and more materials into defense production, less into civilian stuff. The pushing is being done by NPA—The National Production Authority—which handles controls over the materials that go into production.

These controls have not been used all at once, but step by step, starting back in September when NPA was created.

Inventory controls—NPA laid down a list of 32 basic items that were important to defense and included steel, copper, some chemicals and certain building materials.

Warn Hoarders

In effect, this is what NPA told manufacturers: "Don't try to hoard those 32. You can keep buying them—to make whatever it is you make—but only in the amount you usually bought."

Priorities—this was the next step but there wasn't any difficulty in understanding it or carrying it out. It meant this:

If a manufacturer made a contract with the government to turn out a defense item, he got a priority over a man making only civilian goods.

Allocations—NPA must see that there are enough materials not only for direct military needs but for indirect ones, too. For example:

Freight cars are necessary to haul defense items and warehouses are necessary to store them. So NPA ordered the steel mills to allocate, or set aside, enough of their steel to take care of things like freight cars and warehouses.

Horizontal cuts—NPA, as the weeks passed, ordered manufacturers to cut down by various percentages on the use of all the important metals, except steel, which is more plentiful than some others.

Aluminum Cuts

For example: Makers of aluminum pots must reduce by 20 percent the amount of aluminum they've been using. Note that up to this point NPA hasn't forbidden anyone to make anything he normally made.

Forbidden—as a taste of what's in store in an even more severe way, NPA reached a logical next step.

Since there's not enough copper to meet all needs—both defense and civilian—NPA flatly forbade use of copper in a long list of civilian goods it said are non-essential, like copper ashtrays.

Nevertheless, the manufacturers of copper ashtrays still can make ashtrays of some kind, if they can find a substitute for copper. This is pretty good evidence we're still only feeling our way into the defense program.

Will Clamp Down

What lies ahead? Plenty. As defense production grows more intense and ever more materials and manpower are needed for it, NPA probably will have to forbid the

Who's Called When Army Has Problems? Combat Engineers

By HAL BOYLE

With U. S. Troops in Korea—(AP)—The Allies left a number of tanks in usable condition behind when they retreated from Pyongyang.

Who stayed to blow them up after the infantry had gone? The combat engineers.

Enemy Mine Field
The enemy had a strongly guarded minefield holding up a column of American tanks in the march on Waegwan. Who went up under fire and dug out the mines? The combat engineers.

A top commander was worried lest the Reds hit his division in force. If he had to retreat, he feared that all his men would not be able to get out down the only road. He called in the combat engineers. They immediately bulldozed him a completely new path across the hill.

In the early days of the Korean campaign the defense lines were desperately short of men. Who went up and fought and died in the foxholes with the regular infantry? The combat engineers.

Among Least

These are just a few of the tasks performed by these men who are among least glorified figures in wartime, but without whom no modern army could get far.

Whenever the top brass meets a difficult military problem in the field the solution is: "Well, let's send up the combat engineers and see what they can do." Usually they find an answer.

The combat engineer takes pride in doing anything he is told to do. He is the odd-jobs man of the battlefield—soldier, laborer, logger, sanitary engineer and inventor.

Assorted Tools

His tools are rifles, bulldozers, axes, picks and shovels, barbed wire, dynamite and courage—and a resourceful mind.

His work is always dirty, often dangerous, never predictable, and usually unrecognized by folks back home.

He never knows from day to day whether he will have to take his turn in the battle line, repair a road, blow up an old bridge or build a new one, set out a minefield or just go out and purify some water for the troops.

Turn Cowboy

In Korea the combat engineers once even served in the novel role of cowboys. That was at Masan.

"The native cattle were straying into our minefields or wandering through the lines and getting butchered by the Reds," said Lt. Avery Fullerton of Loudonville, N. Y.

"We had to build corals for them and then go out and round them up. After that they called us the cowpen battalion."

Fullerton, a 20-year-old platoon leader, is a member of the West Point class of 1949. He has been in Korea since July 24.

"I came here on the pleasant 30-day tour of the luxurious far east," he smiled, "and so far haven't seen a Chinaman."

Britain's Fox Hunting Is Vanishing With Aristocracy

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

England's lively Princess Margaret is the subject of another bit of gossip which is being rolled under tongues at tea tables—this time because of her reported curiosity to see a fox hunt with hounds in full cry.

Her Royal Highness has been rebuked by the League Against Cruel Sports on the ground of having followed a hunt, and this despite the fact that she was riding sedately in an automobile. Her reply, if any, isn't recorded, but imaginative readers can fill that in.

A Thrilling Sight

As a matter of fact it's easy to understand the desire of the princess to get a glimpse of the picturesque procession of red-coated riders racing across country after three hounds. While many folk disapprove of the way the fox is killed, yet there remains a thrill in the fine horsemanship and in the skill of the trained mounts, especially when there are fences to jump.

Incidentally Margaret's uncle, former King Edward VIII and now Duke of Windsor, was a keen rider to hounds as Prince of Wales. He was thrown from his horse several times and Prime Minister Baldwin finally asked him to abandon the sport, fearing the heir to the throne might have a fatal fall.

One doubts that the pretty princess feels she has sinned greatly. In any event she has had a fleeting sight of a sport which for centuries has been followed by royalty and aristocracy, but which now is on its way out.

"Landed Aristocrats"

The decline in fox hunting isn't due so much to opposition as to high taxation. The point is that this sport always has been associated with the landed aristocracy—the country gentlemen, across whose great estates the hunts have taken place, frequently much to the anguish of tenant farmers whose grain fields have been torn up.

An example of what is happening is seen in the case of the young Earl of Harwood, whose princess mother is sister of King George. The earl had to sell some one-third of his ancient ancestral estate to pay inheritance tax when his father died. Farms were sold which had been in tenant families for 300 years.

The cost of riding to hounds is, of course, very high. The mounts in themselves are worth a fortune.

So are the carefully trained dogs which are handled by expert huntsmen. When the country squire has satisfied the government on taxation, there frequently isn't much, if anything, for fox hunting.

The Buddhist church owns nearly all the farm land in Tibet, with farmers operating as sharecroppers.

Kit Carson's old home is owned by the Masonic order and operated as a public museum at Taos, New Mexico.

Good-Sound-Dry-Full Bodied-ADAPTED DEKALB

RESEARCH FIELD CREWS FIND THAT DEKALB CORN DRIES OUT-SHELLS OUT-PAYS OUT!

IT PAYS TO RAISE DEKALB—that's probably the one big reason why MORE FARMERS HAVE PLANTED DEKALB EACH YEAR FOR THE PAST 11 YEARS THAN ANY OTHER ONE BRAND OF SEED CORN.

This year, late unadapted corn looked good in the early Fall, but now, when it's cribbed, it's a different story. The ears are light in grain, heavy with cob—kernels are small, shrunken and chaffy. While on the other hand, ADAPTED DeKalb Corn shows full, big, plump-kernelled, sound quality ears with small cobs and lots of feeding value. How do we know? Well, DeKalb sent its Research Field Crews right out on more than 100 farms and ran actual tests on moisture, test weight, shelling percentages and all-around Quality. The picture above tells the story.

Can you afford to gamble your corn crop on unproved, unadapted seed? Why not plant DeKalb—the corn that's used by more farmers than any other brand. See your DeKalb dealer listed below. B-36 Air Giants Land in U.S. on 5,000-Mi. Trip

Fort Worth, Tex., Jan. 22—(AP)—Six B-36 bombers—able to lug more bombs than any other war plane—thundered more than 5,000 miles non-stop through high head winds to return home from England.

The air giants ended a training mission of more than 10,000 miles here yesterday, hampered only by "minor difficulties"—a broken windshield wiper and a broken oil line.

On schedule the half dozen big planes landed at Carswell Air Force base here, the first stop since leaving Lakenheath air base in England 30 hours, and 16 minutes earlier.

The six ships left Ft. Worth Jan. 13, stopped at Limestone, Me., and then flew to Lakenheath last Tuesday. The return flight was essentially the same route, but no stops.

The four jet engines which each plane carries in addition to its six piston-type engines, were used only on takeoffs.

An American task force recaptured Wonju (2) and its airstrip but later withdrew. An enemy buildup is reported northwest of Wonju, while a Red regiment moved south in the Yongwol area (5), where UN patrols clashed with superior enemy forces in the mountains. The South Korean radio—not always accurate—reported the enemy had penetrated 30 miles south (4) of Wonju, and that some 100,000 North Koreans and Chinese Reds were preparing to move into the area. Maj. Gen. Robert Soule, U. S. Third Division commander, said the Reds can be stopped on the present UN defense line (striped-shaded line).

Litchfield Union Accepts Pay Cut, Returns to Work

Litchfield, Ill., Jan. 22—(AP)—Workers at a Litchfield Radiator plant, idle since April 30, 1949, because of a lack of business, voted Saturday to accept a 15 cents an hour pay cut to return to work.

The American Radiator-Standard Sanitary Corp., radiator division plant, said it has received some orders for the division and expects some defense orders in the future. It planned re-opening today with a small crew with rehiring of additional workers later in the week.

Production and maintenance workers, members of the CIO United Steel Workers union, local 1770, voted 108 to 30 Saturday to return to work, taking a 10 per cent cut in piece work rates. Most of them have been out of work since the plant closed.

E. L. Grenagle, plant manager, said the cut amounted to about 15 cents an hour. He said straight hourly paid workers average $1.59 with piece workers getting from $1.17 to $2.16 an hour.

Dane Murphy, USW local secretary, said the plant closed in 1949 and that in November 1950, the company offered to resume production if the workers would accept a pay cut. The local voted it down several times before approving the move.

Step Right Up If You Want a 'Day' On the Calendar

Washington, Jan. 22—(AP)—Lovers of leisure looked expectantly today at congress for at least 10 bills have been introduced which call for observing special days.

Ten more holidays maybe. Rep. King (D-Calif.) wants a National Children's day. Rep. Kennedy (D-Mass.) is more specific. He's all for a National Children's Dental Health day.

A number of congressmen, including Rep. Sadlak (R-Conn.), want Oct. 11 set aside to commemorate the death of a Polish hero who helped in the American revolution, Brig. Gen. Casimir Pulaski. It's now observed by presidential proclamation.

Rep. Taft (R-Iowa) thinks Sept. 17 should be celebrated as Constitution day. Rep. Keating (R-NY) has two special days in mind: Nov. 19, the anniversary of Lincoln's Gettysburg address, as Dedication day, and the fourth Sunday in September as Interfaith day.

Danville Runaways Held for Parents

Henderson, Ky., Jan. 22—(AP)—Two teenage Danville, Ill., youths who came to the police station last night, and said they had run away from home are waiting the arrival of their parents.

The boys, Chester LeRoy and Lee McCord, both 14, told police they left Danville Wednesday noon and had nothing to eat for 24 hours.

Police said the boys' parents had been notified.

The youths told the officers they were picked up by Louisville police Thursday night and turned over to Travelers' Aid. The officers said the boys were sent to a children's center to await their return to Danville but escaped by jumping a fence.

Predicts Big Week for Reins On Productions and Materials

By SAM DAWSON

New York, Jan. 22—(AP)—This looks like a big week for controls on production and materials. The industrial orders are slated to precede the all-important whopper, the freezing of wages and prices.

Some industries are going to get more steel or at least are going to get first chance at certain types of steel.

Told to Use Less

Others are being told they can use less rubber, tungsten, tin, and nickel. Others expect soon to be told how much less zinc they can have and for what purposes they can use it. The home building industry, already feeling the twin brakes of materials controls and curbs on mortgage credit, hears that a new order setting price ceilings on all new homes may be in the making.

The new metals controls are expected to come along in rapid order this week. Steel mills are being told that they must accept a greater percentage of defense orders before filling orders for purely civilian use.

Alert Tinplate Industry

The tinplate industry is alerted for a series of orders this week. They are expected to ban use of tin in jewelry, kitchen utensils, toys, buttons and other products classed as non-essential. The amount of tin that can be used in packaging beer, food and other commodities is due to be cut back. Still another limiting order on the use of tin for bottle caps and collapsible tubes is expected.

Users of nickel expect an order

Tungsten, used in hardening steel, is about to be clamped under a strict order reserving all supplies for military and essential civilian uses.

Marines Mail Truman Purple Heart Medals

Port Huron Mich., Jan. 22—(AP)—President Truman has 20 Purple Heart medals—if the U. S. mails saw them through to the White House—to remind him of his since regretted remarks about the Marine corps being the Navy's police force.

This was revealed today by Pfc. Donald R. Chatterton, 20-year-old Marine veteran of Korea. Wounded, Chatterton now is home on 30 days recuperation leave.

Hearing of the president's remarks upon their evacuation to the Treasure Island Marine base at San Francisco, Chatterton said he and 19 other wounded Marines were so angered that they put their Purple Heart medals in the same envelope and addressed it to President Truman. Chatterton said he never learned whether the president got the medals.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Respect is a serious thing in him who feels it, and the height of honor for him who inspires the feeling.—Mme. Swetchine.

Blame World Conditions Not Older Generation for Draft

A father's letter to his draft-age son: The other day I heard a man say he hated to look into the eyes of 18-year-olds because they seemed to accuse him: "What a mess your generation made of this world."

No doubt some of the guys do feel genuinely resentful of their elders because of the state of the world. However, there must be a lot more who realize that the state of the world is a sort of serious accident or grave natural disaster, not a dirty trick we dads pulled on them.

It seems to me the fellows who are putting on uniforms might very well say: "This is a helluva note and we wish we didn't have to fight, but anyway, folks, thanks for giving us the kind of life which is worth defending."

Maybe the minority of resentful guys are resentful only because they aren't conscious of the issues.

If your generation were under a Communist state, you'd have been taken over by the government when you were in grammar school and brought up as a little puppet, with a stock answer to everything. As soon as you were able to tote a rifle you'd have been doing military drill. Most of you would be put in factories, where wages and hours were established by the state and not at all like any American plant.

Mom and Pop may have been a bit strict now and then, but our discipline was based on love and your best interest. We worked pretty hard to clothe and school you but we loved every minute of it. That was part of our compensation under our kind of life.

I can't feel any personal responsibility for Joe Stalin and the rise of communism, but I sure take pride in the kind of life our kind of people have tried to set up here in the U. S. A.

As much as I hate to see you and other guys your age having to interrupt their educations and put on uniforms, I'd feel infinitely worse if you didn't. The worst tragedy of all would be to feel that our kind of world isn't worth fighting for.

When you stand off and take a broad view, our kind of people haven't done so badly. They opened up this continent and set up the fairest government ever created. Even folk whose parents and grandparents came here from other countries, like ours, can claim this as their heritage.

When the forests were cleared and a country grew up, everyone, by and large, got a pretty fair shake. Sure, there were injustices, but we've gone a long way toward evening them out and we will go a long way more if we can just set our minds to it without the interruption of war.

Take kids. Under our system most kids get an excellent education and good medical care. They can go just about as far as their brains and willingness to work will take them. A lot of people worry to make sure they get the right amount of milk and vitamins and their teeth are looked after. Sure, we can do a lot more, but we're on our way and that's something worth defending.

The way I see it, communism is a damned dirty disease, disguised in the trappings of a religion, and we've got to fight it the way we would bubonic plague. We've got to do that so we can get back to the job of progressing like decent folk have always been doing, slowly and sometimes blunderingly, perhaps, but always with good ideals in sight, bringing up our own kids as responsible citizens, doing our part to make the system work.

That ends my speech, Son. What do you think?

Selling at Cost

In these times of ever-soaring prices it is rather remarkable to discover one extremely low-priced commodity whose cost has not advanced even a fraction of a cent all during this period of growing inflation. This item, as the Northwestern National Life Insurance Company of Minneapolis points out, is recipes for curing inflation. The price remains constant—a dime a dozen.

Hollywood — (NEA) — The Laugh Parade: Charley Foy's Supper club is a wild, wacky night spot away from Hollywood's glitter belt and a favorite haunt of stars who like a touch of the sassy in their after-dark entertainment. Blackout skits, ex-vaudeville headliners, a donkey named "Senator" and production numbers in which bus boys, cooks and parking lot attendants participate are staples in the shows that Foy ladies out.

When the club first opened, Foy took a roving microphone through the audience one night and coaxed ringers to sing with him from their tables. Joe Frisco, the club's stuttering star, was particularly impressed by the robust voice of one of the customers.

"S-s-sign him up," Frisco enthused. "D-d-d-don't let him get away f-f-f-from you."

"But, Joe," reasoned Foy, "do you know who that guy is? He's Lawrence Tibbett."

"S-s-sign him up, anyhow," insisted Frisco. "You can always ch-ch-change his name."

"No," the native replied, making the gestures of holding playing cards, "would you care for a game of Canasta?"

Danny Hoctor looks like Fred Astaire and shares the spotlight at the better gin palaces with his dancing partner, Betty Byrd. But this is about the time Danny was flat on his back, with rheumatic fever, and was just another patient to the nurses in a navy hospital during the war.

One day he had a visitor—Larry Storch—and things started changing.

Danny soon started getting telephone calls from Ronald Colman, George Sanders, Charles Boyer, Cary Grant and Clark Gable. Before long Danny was autographing fever charts and hot water bottles for the nurses.

The nurses still don't know that all the phone calls were from Storch, a professional mimic whose stock and trade in show business is impersonations of Ronald Colman, George Sanders, etc.

Jeanette MacDonald and Gene Raymond tossed a dinner party at their Bel Air home in honor of a famous Italian composer. The visitor had expressed an interest in American pumpkin pie some days before, so Jeanette served generous wedges of the dessert to the guests. Beneath each slice of pie, she placed a paper-thin doll, described by the star as being of cowbeauty texture.

To the horror of the Raymonds, the guest of honor began to devour the doll with the pie, chewing with difficulty.

Finally Jeanette coughed delicately and said:

"I beg your pardon, sir, but you are EATING our linen."

PATIENT WAITING

For three weeks actor Dan White waited patiently for a role in "David and Bathsheba." He didn't know what it was, but Director Henry King assured him it was an important scene. Finally White was led before the camera to a prop holy Ark of the Covenant featured in the Biblical romance.

"What do I do?" he asked. "Drop dead," said Director King. White did. Per script and Bible, he touched the Ark and fell, his big scene over in 30 seconds.

Lying Flat on Back Best Way to Cure Common Cold

It looks as though the common cold had won again. There seems to be just about as many sniffing, sneezing people around this year as last—or the year before. And it is particularly irritating that this ordinary and common ailment should go merrily on while less common though more serious disorders have been conquered by new and sometimes complicated medical and surgical discoveries.

There is a lot of wishful thinking about colds. Everybody has a theory and nearly everybody has a pet remedy. Nearly every year at least one miracle cure is announced with great excitement. But colds keep right on making hundreds of thousands miserable and causing millions of dollars of loss to pay envelopes and production.

The picture isn't entirely dark. It is known that most if not all 'colds' are caused by tiny living organisms called viruses. These viruses float around in the air for a while whenever they are sneezed or coughed out by someone with a cold.

This undoubtedly explains why mingling in crowd increases the chances of catching cold. It also explains why explorers, mountaineers, and others who are subject to all kinds of trying conditions—wet feet and a lot more—get few colds unless they come in contact with other people.

At least these facts show that covering the mouth when coughing or sneezing will help others, and staying away from people with colds will lessen the chances of catching them.

COUNTLESS REMEDIES

There must be thousands of remedies for colds. Last year the antihistamines took first place. Some people seemed to benefit from these and others did not. In those who were helped the good results were apparently caused by relieving the sensitivity or allergy in the nose rather than because these drugs attacked the virus causing the trouble. But several studies seem to show that the antihistamines are not much help and some people get unpleasant side-effects from them.

Successful prevention of colds will probably come sometime and a really good treatment even sooner. In the meanwhile a person coming down with a cold would shorten the duration and feel better faster if he went to bed at once after taking a hot bath and perhaps some aspirin, and stayed horizontal for a couple days. My guess is not many people try it.

Dr. Jordan will answer questions from his readers in a special column once a week. Watch for it.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

Pack Freeze Play Is Tricky

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

When you freeze the pack, your chief object is to prevent the opponents from getting the discard pile. In many situations, you do not expect to get the pile yourself. Sometimes you hope to meld out before either side gets the pile. In other cases you hope to use up the cards of the stock pile before either side can get the discard pile.

When you freeze the deck very early in the play of a hand, you cannot expect that the hand will come to an end very soon. It is only reasonable to expect that one side or the other will manage to get the discard pile sooner or later. If you freeze the pack at such a time, you must be sure that you or your partner will get the pile rather than the opponents.

When you freeze the pile early in the play, it is usually because the opponents have made their initial meld and your side has not. However, it is not always wise to freeze the pack in this situation.

For example, suppose one of the opponents takes the first large discard pile and makes his initial meld. If he manages to keep about 20 cards in his hand, it would be very foolish to freeze the pack against him. It would be very difficult to stop him from getting the pile in a very short time. The reason is simple and logical: with 20 cards in his hand, he has far more pairs than you or your partner have with only 11 cards in your hands.

In other words, you freeze the pack not only because the opponents have made the initial meld, but also because in so doing they have reduced the number of cards in their hands. For example, an opponent with only five cards in his hand has a much smaller chance of getting the discard pile than you have when you hold your full hand of 11 cards.

Even this is not the full story. It is a dangerous business to freeze the pack when you need 120 points for your initial meld. You may feel confident that you can keep the opponent's from getting the discard pile for several rounds of play, but can you also be sure that you can accumulate 120 points during that safely period? If not, the pack will eventually get away from you.

Q—My score was over 1500 points but then went below again as a result of a losing hand. Do I still need 90 points for the initial meld, or do I go back to melding 50 points?
A—When your score goes below 1500 points, you go back to needing only 50 points for your initial meld.

Q—When a player melds out, is he entitled to add 500 points to his score if he holds four black threes?

A—No. There is no special bonus for black threes. Nevertheless, they are very useful cards and are well worth having.

Q—Does the canasta have a value besides its bonus value? In other words, are the seven kings in a canasta also counted for 70 points in the card count?

A—Yes. You get 500 points as a bonus for the natural canasta of kings. Then you also get 70 points for the card count of those seven kings.

Famous New York Restaurants Are Hangouts for the Rich, Politicians and Reds

New York—The legends are dying out, but there are still memories, faintly rekindled now and again in the feature stories, of high living at Delmonico's, the Hoffman House, Mouquin's and a few other bygone old galas of New York. Mouquin's I knew to a degree befitting my economic station. The station was $27.50 a week. The relationship was not intimate.

I will not have at you with whimsy today, however. I am to remark that, as of now, the Stork, 21 and Toots Shor's, El Morocco and the Colony have had so much publicity that you might think they were the only worth-while places in town and to mention other facts of unimportance. Well, they are very good restaurants and they will be remembered too. They have made an impression on our politics, government, our morals and our fate.

The Stork and 21 were speakeasies during the long rebellion against the Foul Amendment. Shor's came along after, but Mr. Shor had been the heave at some joints in the old Owney Madden chain during prohibition. He is now a big man around town. Pundits seek his counsel.

I think El Morocco was a speak, too, but I somehow always found the atmosphere of the colony so rarefied that I couldn't enjoy the Lucullan delicacies, and I have no book on the proposition of liquor, whether or no in those days.

I got embarrassed one night in the colony. I was talking taxes to a lady and I said: "Lady, the only way to beat the estate tax is to put it into $20 bills and rent safe deposit boxes in different places like New Rochelle, Wilkes-Barre and Trenton in the name of the Acme Products Corp., Eureka Enterprises, Inc., and so forth."

She indicated that in her case this was inappropriate. Later I learned that she had two hundred million dollars. How would you feel if you popped off like that? I told Mr. Scheneman, the commissioner of Internal Revenue, about it and he was like to bust a gut. Just the same he gave that Oliphant of his, the counsel of the bureau, a kick under the table. So they undoubtedly have a red ticker on my file for the day when. Me and my big mouth!

By the judgment of my measuring eye I would say that the Stork is primo in this league with 21 secundo and Shor's third. In strange ways, they are all political, although the political atmosphere has changed markedly in El Stork to my certain knowledge, and probably in 21 and Tootsies. They were all hotbeds of New Dealism for a long time when the bleeding-hearts were helling-around the fleeshpots and eating high on the hog. Leon Henderson, Frank Murphy of the Supreme court, Jim Farley, Ed Flynn and Teddy Hayes and John Edgar H., the Eye That Never Sleeps, were painted on the walls of the Cub room. One night at El Stork a long guy wormed out of a cab practically on his belly, the way you must with these low-ceilinging jobs, and it was Mr. Justice Douglas. At that an emerging customer, who was feeling no pain, embraced him with a wild cry of "Bill!" They went in to the bar where, soon afterward, this painless character, who is famous for his Irishness, let out a yell: "You went to England, didn't you? Well, why the hell didn't you go to Eire?" Fancy! A justice of our Supreme court!

The Krienders, who run 21, do not permit table-hopping by gossip columnist and they banged the door years ago on the most obnoxious of these. Still, they get their share of lineage in the more or less pure reading matter, such as this. It is a paradox, but in 21 you will find the wealthiest carriage trade making fellowship with literati who are as Red as a sore throat. Imagine bolos and the Duke and Duchess in the same room as someone was saying, the world seems confused.

Shor's is known as a baseball hangout because Toots maintains an exuberance about the Giants as a club and about Joe DiMaggio as a player. This seems to me to be artificial. A lot of the sport writers go there, too, and advertising men and quite a load of Democrats and lots of movie people some of whom are notorious rather than renowned in the appetizing meaning of the word.

Mr. Shor has violent social manners. If he likes you he mauls you. That means you have been tapped for Bones. I keep reading in dull, long-winded character studies that important citizens regard this treatment as a mark of social success. I even read that Toots insults people

Washington has only two or three good restaurants, but Washington people are scrawny trade. Jack Dempsey cased the town and decided not to. He said it was a town with only two pay days a month and a very low general standard of wages. Most of the government people usually eat frugal meals at home and when they do go out they aren't spenders in the tradition. There are no saloon and restaurant sports in the shrine of each patriot's devotion.

You ask a girl for several dates and each time she refuses you.

WRONG: Keep on asking her for dates.

RIGHT: Realize that it is embarrassing for a girl to have to keep making excuses for refusing a date—and stop calling her.

Mothers: Accept Fact You May Raise Son for Army

Are you raising your boy to be a soldier? You'd better be.

It's foolish for any mother of a son today to delude herself that by the time her little boy is grown the world will be at peace.

But what can a mother do in whatever years she has before her son reaches military age to prepare him for whatever is in store for him? Actually she can do a lot.

She can force herself to see that month by month and year by year he grows in self-reliance. It is so tempting to coddle a child too much, to delay letting him take on new responsibilities, to shelter him from the consequences of his own actions. But such overprotection is something we women have got to stop.

Another thing a mother can do is to turn over to her son's training over to his father. A world at war or on the verge of war is no place for a Mama's boy. Psychiatrists tell us we had too many Mama's boys in the last war.

MOTHER MUST FACE FACTS HERSELF

And, of course, there is the need for the mother to be realistically strong herself. Before she can ever hope that her son will be ready and willing to take a man's place in the protection of his country, she must have accepted the hard fact of that necessity herself.

We women hate war. It has never made sense to us. It never can. Yet we have never been strong enough to make our feelings count.

Until we are, we had better raise our boys to be soldiers.

That is only facing reality. We may dream of peace. But chances are our sons will sometime have to fight. So no matter what our dreams our duty is clear. To be strong ourselves, and to raise our boys to be strong and self-reliant.

Dixon Teachers Hear Dr. Kent, Czechoslovakia

When the Dixon Teachers Association held their regular meeting in the music room of the Dixon high school, after a short business session, the meeting was turned over to Miss Mary Willford, who introduced the speaker for the evening. He was Dr. Frederick Kent, a visiting professor from Czechoslovakia, who at present is serving on the faculty at Northern Illinois State Teachers College, DeKalb.

Dr. Kent gave an interesting talk on his native country. He began by sketching briefly its historical background and then proceeded to discuss the present Czechoslovakia under Communist control, and the conclusions which we might draw from conditions as they are there.

He said that his country was originally started by Slavs, that in the fifth and sixth centuries it was free, and after centuries of various changes, it finally lost its independence in 1620, to Austria-Hungary. The University of Prague, where Dr. Kent received his degree, was established in the 14th century and at the end of the 18th century it was permitted to open a Czech Chair. Gradually then, a group of patriots spread information to their countrymen, making them aware of their glorious freedom in the past, and arousing their patriotism.

Dr. Kent told about the Republic of Czechoslovakia which was established in 1918, and how a little later, as a child of six, he started to school and was greatly impressed when the gentle old man who was his teacher started out by saying, "We must be most grateful to a sister Republic across the ocean who helped us so much." He had then showed them the American flag and helped them sing "America."

Their Constitution was drawn up on the American model, with the same social, political and economic institutions. During the 20 years of their freedom, Dr. Kent continued, they had concentrated on having a strong middle class.

Dr. Kent, in conclusion, expressed the opinion that we in America cannot afford a passive attitude toward Communism. That with only three people out of 10 on the earth living as decent human beings and the other seven being under-fed, under-clad and under-housed, Communism is no small threat. He suggested we follow a policy of double action: That on the home front we need to have a powerful counter propaganda program, we need to elevate our politics and diplomacy to such a high level that only the finest citizens will be chosen and we all need to be well informed. This last can only be accomplished by reading several newspapers each day from different parts of our country and at least one good foreign newspaper, before we formulate our own opinions, said Dr. Kent.

On the international front, he recommended we have strong armed forces and work only through the United Nations in approaching world problems. Dr. Kent came to America for graduate study at Northwestern university. Since 1938 he has been teaching in Prague, Czechoslovakia, and has been active in the Pointers were given on how to recognize a dog suffering from rabies and on the seriousness of bites from these dogs.

Serving on the refreshment committee were: Mrs. Robert Wilson, chairman; Mrs. Robert Burrs, Mrs. Arthur Eastman and Mrs. William Shippert.

Quebec's Amazing Expansion

"Industry in Action," just published by the Province of Quebec demonstrates the amazing growth of industrial production in that province. Ample illustrations, the 84 page publication reviews the development of every major industry in Quebec. It also outlines facilities made available for the people of the province in such varied fields as forestry training, agricultural schools, colonization, and brings production figures up to date.

For instance, it is rarely realized that over four thousand new industries located in the province since 1945. The year-end total for 1950 undoubtedly would show that the five year period from 1945 actually has brought an even greater number of new producers to the province.

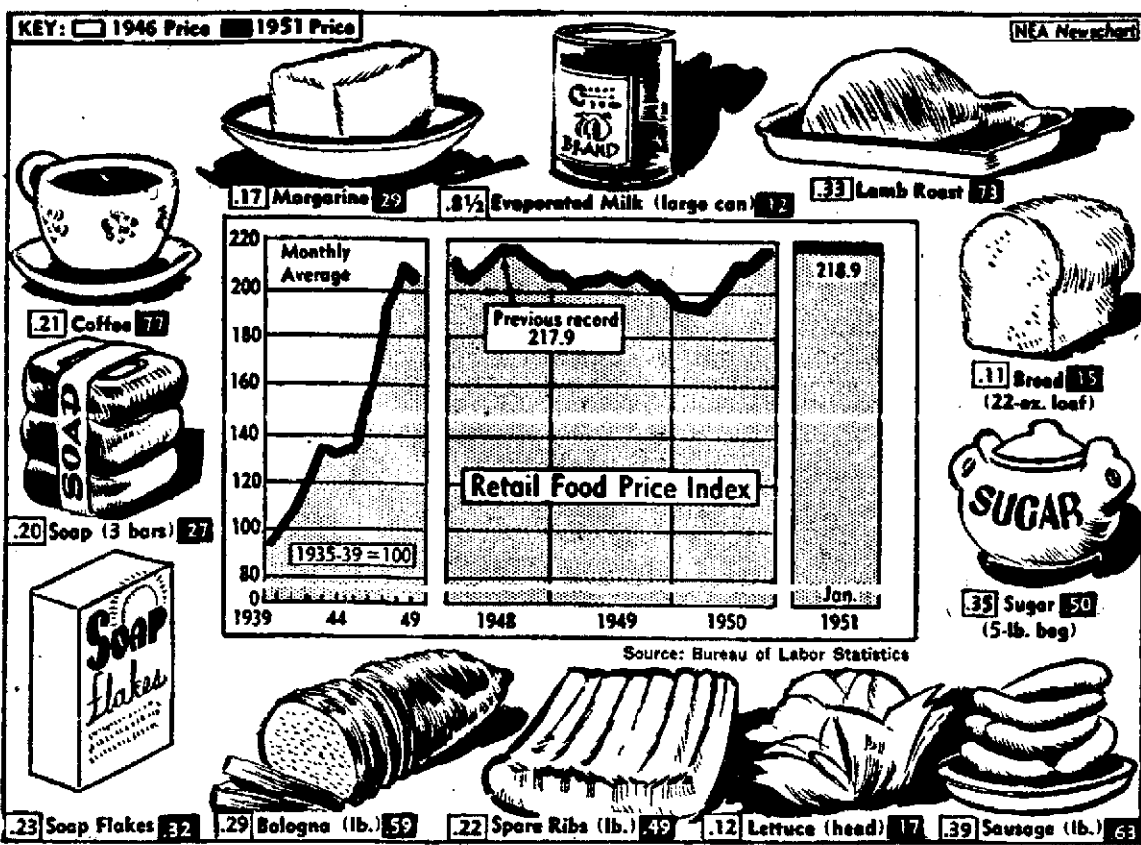

Considering the vastness of industrial developments, the province has an amazingly favorable record in the matter of labor disputes. The sound labor policies, incorporated in the Quebec labor code, no doubt have a lot to do with it; although credit must be given to the much more stable characteristics of the average French Canadian worker, in both cities and small towns.

The province maintained, during 1950, its amazing growth in the utilization of water powers. Although still only partly developed, the hydro sources in the province far exceed those of any other country in the world. For instance, as is shown in "Industry in Action," while in Quebec there are available, 1,580 HP for every thousand inhabitants in Canada as a whole there are only 800 HP per mille of inhabitants. And it is interesting to note, that the compilation shows 12 horsepower per thousand inhabitants in the Soviet Union.

Quebec's strategic reservoir of energy, therefore, continues to outweigh all the others and assures the province the front rank in further industrial development and in the defense industries of Canada.

This booklet is being distributed by the Provincial Publicity Bureau, Parliament Buildings, Quebec City, Canada, and should certainly draw renewed attention not only to what Quebec has to offer but what Canada as a whole has to contribute to the economic development of the western world.

Farm Program

Tuesday evening, Jan. 16, Holly Quist, Ogle county soil conservationist, led the adult farmer evening school discussion on crop rotations and their relationship to soil fertility.

Quist warned that the farmers would have to be more diligent in their farm soil planning programs if they are to maintain their soil in a high state of fertility during the emergency when the government is calling for more and more production of farm crops. He pointed out that no type of farming could maintain soil fertility unless the farmers used one or more of the following guides:

Use limestone where needed. Use a good inoculated legume in the rotation. Maintain organic matter. Control erosion. Use commercial fertilizers wisely.

Next Tuesday evening, Jan. 23, the Standard oil company will present a program devoted to lubrication and tractor maintenance. As usual the meeting will be held at the high school at 7:45.

Illinois Legislature Debated Prohibition Bill Century Ago

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 22—(AP)—The Illinois legislature was debating the subject of prohibition a century ago—nearly 70 years before congress enacted the Volstead law.

In fact, the state lawmakers adopted a modified form of prohibition in 1851, then two years later repealed the law outlawing sale of whisky in measures smaller than one quart.

This and other chapters of state history were recalled today by an exhibit gotten up by archivists of the Illinois state library on "Illinois government, 1851."

On display in the archives building are originals of laws passed in that year to:

Take the state out of the banking business.

Authorize Joliet citizens to vote on whether to saddle themselves with a tax for building sidewalks.

Provide for draining "the wet lands about Chicago."

Pave the way for organization of Kankakee county.

Establish four new judicial circuits, the 12th, 13th, 14th and 15th.

Have 6 Game Win Streak; 10-5 Record

Dixon's fighting cagers lengthened their win streak to six straight as they walloped a futile Fulton five on Saturday, 71-35, before the home fans. It was a one-sided affair after the first quarter when the Purple and White jumped to a 22-6 lead and had little trouble holding the invaders at bay.

Floyd Acker led the Dukes, who have moved into a tie for second place in the North Central Illinois cage race with their Friday win over Sterling, by dumping in 23 points. Jim Mercer, the other

Jim Wessles was high for the losers with 10 points.

Seofield Clears Bench

Coach Lon Scofield cleared the bench in the victory, with eleven of the Duke cagers making marks in the scoring column. All total 17 players had a hand in the win. The Dixon Dukelets were not as hot as their older brothers and dropped their preliminary tilt to the Fulton frosh-soph five, 32-26.

Acker opened the scoring in the varsity game as he cut the nettings cleanly with a shot from the corner. He followed with another from under the basket and the Dukes had a 4-0 lead with two minutes gone.

At the four-minute mark the home club had a 12-3 advantage and went on to extend that margin to 22-6 at the end of the first eight minutes of play.

Held 39-10 Halftime Lead

In the second quarter Coach Lon Scofield began substituting but the Dukes poured in another 17 points while holding their opponents to four markers. When the horn sounded for the intermission the Dukes held a 39-10 lead.

Fulton returned to the floor determined to shorten the gap between the two teams, but could not match the hosts' accuracy. Acker hit from out on the court and Kelly Kappler and Mercer added free throws to the Duke total before the invaders tallied a single marker on a charity toss by John Blodgett. It was the only mark the Steamers could make in the first five minutes of the third period.

When the Duke substitutes took over the tilt invaders began to score on rebounds and added 10 points to their count to make it 60-23 at the end of the third quarter.

In the final period the Fulton five outscored the Dukes by a mark, but the final tally was heavily in favor of the Purple and White and read 71-35.

Dukelets Drop Opener

In the earlier game the Dukelets opened the contest as if they were going to return to the winning side of the ledger. Led by Larry Lund who tallied 11 points, the Duke underclassmen moved to a 6-0 lead.

Their margin was shortened when the invading frosh-soph squad began to score. At the end of the first quarter, it was 9-8, in favor of the Dukelets.

In the next period they added another counter to their lead and retired for the intermission with a 15-13 advantage.

The Purple and White underclassmen failed to get the rebounds in the late half and were outscored in both quarters to wind up on the short end of a 32-26 count.

"Sonny" Kerley added seven points to the Dukelet cause before he left the game on fouls in the third quarter. Jimmy DeYoung marked up five counters but displayed his best form of the season, handling the ball well and playing a good floor game.

Indiana Looks Like Big Ten Top Contendor

Chicago, Jan. 22—(AP)—Indiana's hustling Hoosiers, who have played all the Big Ten's top basketball title contenders and defeated them, are hosts at home to a tall-end club tonight.

Although Indiana cannot afford a let-down, the Hoosiers can breathe just a little easier, perhaps, as they face Ohio State tonight. They play, Minnesota's fourth-place Gophers Saturday.

Ohio State, the defending champion, has not won a game in four starts but Minnesota has won three out of four.

After ripping through Illinois 64-53 a week ago and Purdue 77-56 at Lafayette, Ind., Saturday, Indiana undoubtedly considers this week's program a simpler task. As the Hoosiers shoot for their fifth straight league win and their 12th in 13 starts for the season tonight Coach Branch McCracken must quell any overconfidence that may seep into his squad.

In the only other league game tonight Iowa (2-3) is at Minnesota (3-1). Other Saturday dates send Michigan State (2-3) to Ohio State and Purdue (0-4) to Northwestern (3-2).

The schedule is light because of mid-year examinations.

Postpone Grade School Tourney

The finals of the Lee County Grade School basketball tournament which was to be held at Ashton last Saturday night, were postponed because of hazardous traveling conditions. New dates for the forthcoming finals will be announced shortly.

Church Cagers Play Tonight

Three games are carded for tonight's Dixon Church league basketball play, as the teams swing into their second date of round two.

St. Paul has not dropped a tilt this season and leads the league with six wins. They tangle with West Side at 8 o'clock. In the opener at 7 p. m. Bethel will face the Baptists and in the nightcap, Grace and Tabernacle will exchange baskets.

Stan Wassenaar continues to lead the league in individual scoring, but is closely followed by Bill Reigle who in two games has tallied 61 counters.

Eliot to Remain As Illini Coach

Champaign—(AP)—Head Football Coach Ray Eliot of Illinois, who had been considered for the vacant coaching spot at the University of Southern California, announced he is staying at Illinois. In a statement issued after a conference with Illinois officials and members of his coaching staff, Eliot said that the university "is so much a part of me that I felt I should stay here."

He said that one of the main factors in his decision to stay was the "appeal of every member of the football squad" not to make the change.

Eliot and his line coach, Burt Ingwersen, had made a flying trip to Los Angeles Friday to talk with USC Athletic Director Willis O. Hunter about the opening. It was understood that if he had accepted the offer some members of his staff would have gone along.

Eliot's statement said: "Since this matter crystallized I have been virtually deluged with letters, telegrams and telephone calls from alumni, friends, students and faculty members, all asking me to remain at Illinois."

"Perhaps more important to me than anything else has been the appeal of every member of our football squad that I stay here along with other members of the coaching staff."

Long Island, with a 14-0 slate, is one of the two major unbeaten teams in the land. The other is Columbia, winner of 12 straight. The next two weeks will determine whether LIU has it. The Blackbirds make one of their infrequent road trips, stopping at San Francisco (Friday), California (Saturday), Arizona, Kansas State and St. Louis.

Kentucky at Home

Kentucky, on the other hand, will remain in its own back yard, playing at Georgia Tech tonight and at Vanderbilt on Saturday. Vanderbilt is 6-0 in Southeastern competition, so the game should help decide the conference champion. Kentucky has a 4-0 league record.

Eliot said: "I will make a statement Monday after talking over the USC job with my staff."

Asked if the reported alumni and under grads petition of dissatisfaction could affect his decision, Eliot said: "Yes, it could."

Aggies Fall as Strange Pattern Follows Top Ranked Quintets

New York, Jan. 22—(AP)—Became the country's No. 1 basketball power, and have your winning streak shattered! That's been the strange pattern which has plagued the nation's leading teams this season.

First Kentucky, winner of six straight games, was the leader. St. Louis took care of the Wildcats in the Sugar Bowl tourney.

Then Bradley rode a 15-game winning streak to the top. St. John's derailed the Braves.

Upset by State Rivals

Now it's Oklahoma A&M's turn to feel the pressure. The Aggies, ranked No. 1 in last week's Associated Press poll, were upset Saturday by Oklahoma, 44-40, thus ending A&M's 16-game run.

At the moment, Kentucky and fourth-ranked LIU look like the best bets to take over.

The Wildcats, No. 2 nationally, have rebounded from the St. Louis setback and now boast another six-game streak and a 12-1 seasonal record.

Long Island, with a 14-0 slate, is one of the two major unbeaten teams in the land. The other is Columbia, winner of 12 straight.

The next two weeks will determine whether LIU has it. The Blackbirds make one of their infrequent road trips, stopping at San Francisco (Friday), California (Saturday), Arizona, Kansas State and St. Louis.

Trojan Campus Requests Brown, Refuse Eliot

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 22—(AP)—Head football coach Ray Eliot of Illinois, who has been put on the spot even before he makes up his mind whether to take the University of Southern California job, is supposed to make a decision Monday.

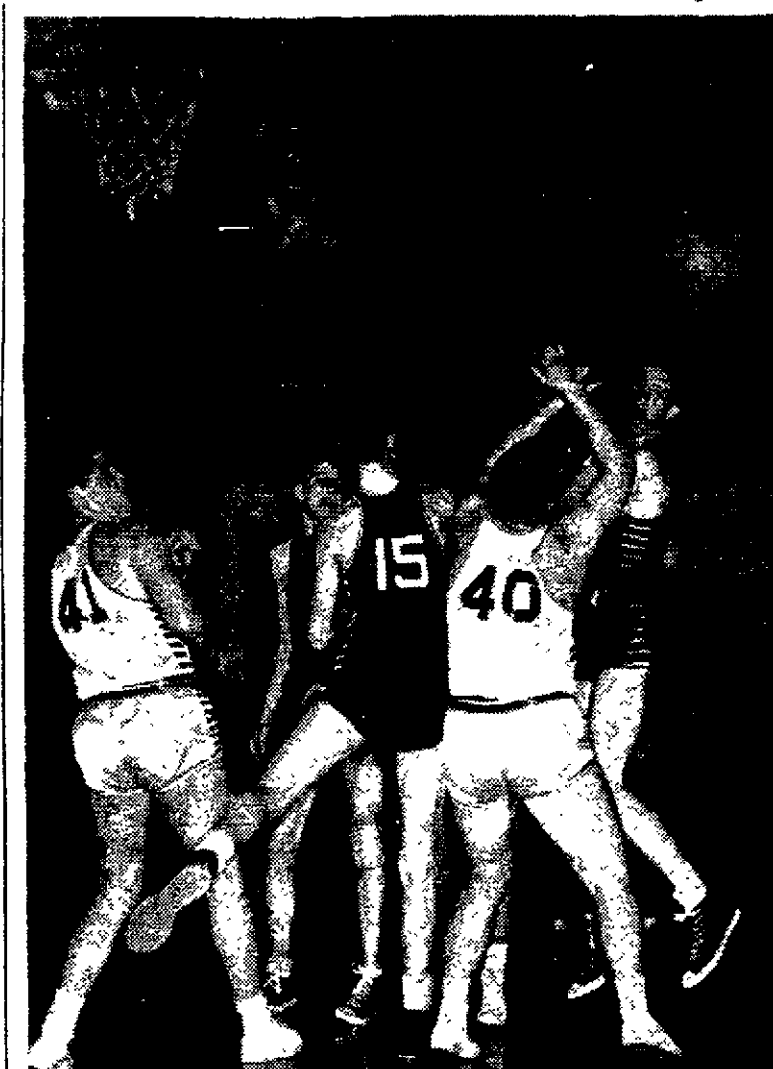

Eliot and his line coach Burt Ingwersen, made a flying trip to Los Angeles Friday to talk with USC Athletic Director Willis O. Hunter about the opening.

Even before he reached his Champaign home again, word broke from the coast that a petition was circulating on the Trojan campus demanding Paul Brown instead of Eliot—and "hang the price."

Brown, coach of the pro champion Cleveland Browns, said he had "no comment on this situation."

Eliot said: "I will make a statement Monday after talking over the USC job with my staff."

Asked if the reported alumni and under grads petition of dissatisfaction could affect his decision, Eliot said: "Yes, it could."

THERE IT GOES—Six cagers went up after a rebound and batted the ball free as none were able to gain possession of the elusive sphere. Cagers in the picture are Henry Dixon (41) and Ben Roe (40) of Dixon and Jerry Voss (15) of Fulton.

Gehrmann Lacks Competition for Meet Mile Runs

Boston, Jan. 22—(AP)—The mile run, top cash customer lure in indoor track, today appeared to be strictly a one-man affair—Don Gehrmann of Milwaukee, Wis.

And if Fred Wilt, the FBI-flyer, becomes as discouraged as several other outstanding milers, major meet promoters may wind up with Gehrmann as the sole entry for their feature events.

But Wilt and Gehrmann will compete again in next Saturday's Millrose meet in New York.

Here Saturday night, for the second time in 24 hours, Gehrmann toyed with Wilt while winning the K of C mile by 10 yards in 4:11.5. The previous night in Philadelphia, the bespectacled insurance man, romped to a seven-yards triumph over Wilt in 4:12.4.

Also running against Gehrmann in Philadelphia were Ingvar Bengtsson, the Swedish star, and John Joe Barry, Villanova's Irish import. After being humbled by Gehrmann in two consecutive starts, that Swedish fireman dropped down to the "1000," which he won.

And Barry, who had finished sixth behind Gehrmann in Philadelphia, switched his K of C mile entry for the two-mile event, in which he was beaten by Horace Ashenfelter of the Penn. A. C. in a eyelash fashion.

While Gehrmann was turning in his 35th straight mile victory, he also ran against Al Holmberg,

Rolfe Predicts Detroit Tigers Will Be Weaker Next Season

(This is the first of a series of stories written by the Major League managers for the Associated Press under their own by-lines telling how their team shapes up for 1951 and sizing up the other clubs.)

By RED ROLFE

Detroit, Jan. 24—(AP)—As matters stand today, my club is noticeably weaker than it was a year ago.

This is principally due to the loss of Art Houtteman to the army. You will remember that he won 19 games for us in 1950. He will be difficult to replace. Our only pitching addition to date has been the signing of lefthander Earl Johnson who was released by the Boston Red Sox last season. I have hopes that he will return to his earlier form and help us in the relief department.

Weakness Remains

Our main weakness last season was lack of speed. Since there have been no changes in personnel to date this same weakness will be with us for another year. We also could use another long ball hitter, particularly at first base which is traditionally a power position. Don Kolloway does a good workman-like job, but he is a made-over second baseman. We have no one who can swing a bat with the authority of a Luke Easter, a Walt Dropo or a Johnny Mize. My club ranked fourth in home run production last year.

To again be a pennant contender we must find a pitching replacement for Houtteman. We must get better catching and we must find increased power to offset our lack

Admits Slaying, High School Senior to Face Murder Charge

Joliet, Ill., Jan. 22—(AP)—State's Atty. John Pearce said he would charge a high school senior today with murdering 13-year-old Billy Rodenburg, whose body was found in a ditch two days after he disappeared.

Pearce said that Kenneth Scholz, 17, had signed a statement admitting the slaying. He said Scholz related that he killed Billy because he was afraid the younger boy would tell about being held captive in a shack behind the Scholz home.

Sheriff Ernest E. Overbey said he would question the youth further about the case, particularly a motive for the slaying. Overbey said Scholz earlier had stated orally that he had abused Billy sexually but later denied having made such a statement.

Killed With Scarf

Overbey added that in the signed statement, Scholz said he killed Billy Wednesday night by twisting a scarf around his neck.

"Billy, a frail 79-pound eighth grade pupil, disappeared after school Tuesday and his body was found beside a highway near the Scholz home in Crete Thursday night. At that time, Scholz was quoted by police as having said he saw two men throw the body from an automobile.

Weeps in Cell

Scholz wept intermittently in his jail cell Saturday night after giving his statement. Later he became sullen. Authorities barred visitors.

Sheriff Overbey had ordered Scholz picked up for questioning Saturday afternoon. The statement was obtained then.

In the statement released by Overbey, Scholz told the story of the killing. It follows in part:

He stopped in his father's car for a red light in Crete Tuesday and saw Rodenburg. He took him to a shack near Scholz' home and played records for the boy. When the boy wanted to go home, Scholz "loosely tied him up with ropes" and locked him in. He went out for a baby sitting job.

Had to Kill Him

The statement said that Wednesday night Scholz decided that maybe Rodenburg "would tell that he had been held and by whom he had been held, so I knew then that I had to kill him, but I didn't want to. He asked again if he could leave and started to get up.

"Then I picked up a scarf and pulled a zipper on his jacket down a little bit. When I placed the scarf around his neck he must have known then that I was going to kill him and started crying.

"He didn't make any loud noise, just started sobbing. After he started crying I didn't want to kill him but I knew I had to. Then I started to tighten the scarf around his neck. I held it there for about a minute and he started to quit struggling. Then he kicked twice and then laid still.

Quit Kicking

"After about half a minute after he quit kicking I released the pressure and took the scarf off. He was laying there still and I didn't know if he was dead, so I just went into the house."

He left the body in the shack until Thursday night. Then he carried it to the road. Then he told his mother to call police, and told them the story of the body being dumped from an automobile.

'I'll Beat Rap,' Killer Cook Tells Pals En Route to Trial

Oklahoma City, Jan. 22—(AP)—"I'll beat the rap some way," declared confessed slayer William E. Cook, Jr., as he awaited indictment tomorrow in the kidnap-slaying of the Carl Mosser family.

This determination was expressed to prisoners sharing Cook's compartment aboard the train which arrived here yesterday from Los Angeles.

A grand jury will be asked tomorrow to indict him on a Lindbergh law kidnap charge; abducting the five Mossers of Atwood, Ill., with intent to do bodily harm: "To wit, murder."

Arraignment Wednesday

Arraignment is expected Wednesday. U. S. District Attorney Robert Shelton said a quick trial will be held early next month. He emphasized the Missouri desperado will stand trial, regardless of whether he pleads guilty.

Only on jury recommendation can the death penalty be imposed. The 23-year-old ex-convict acted as though he hadn't confessed Friday in San Diego to slaying the Mossers Jan. 2 in Joplin, Mo., after kidnaping them near here Dec. 30. Also seemingly forgotten was his confession to killing Robert Dewey, 32, Seattle salesman, in southern California. Officers said he apparently didn't know his confession had been released to the press.

Surgeons Revive Hope for Saving Hand of Soldier

Battle Creek, Mich., Jan. 22—(AP)—Surgeons at Percy Jones General hospital here hope to save the left fingers and thumb of Army Private Hubert Reeves.

They operated on the 19-year-old soldier Saturday, and removed all the fingers and thumb on his right hand. Reeves, from Joliet, Ill., suffered severe frostbite after being wounded in the Korean fighting.

He already has had both his feet amputated at the ankle. Physicians hoped at first to save right hand fingers and thumb, but had despaired of his left. Now, they say, the left hand is showing signs of life.

Expect to Name Committee Jobs In Legislature

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 22—(AP)—Announcement of house committee assignments are expected tomorrow when the Illinois legislature returns after a two week recess.

Appointment of the chairmen and members of standing committees by Speaker Warren Wood will complete organization of the assembly and put it in a position to go to work. Senate committees already have been named.

The house has two special hearings set for tomorrow.

One is on the resolution by Rep. Charles Jenkins (R-Chicago) asking for a house investigation of "wholesale vote frauds" in Cook county at the Nov. 7 election. The resolution said the inquiry should concentrate on voting machines.

The second hearing will take up a bill to create a new circuit court district in Lake and McHenry counties. The measure, by Rep. Robert McClary (R-Lake Bluff) would leave Winnebago and Boone counties in the present 17th district.

A flock of other bills are expected to be brought in this week.

Non-Election Year Budget Eyed by GOP

Washington, Jan. 22—(AP)—Republican national committee members come to town this week to pass on a sizeable non-election year budget and get their campaign for 1952 started.

A meeting of state finance chairmen Wednesday is expected to get the first look at a spending budget reported to total $1,600,000 for the year.

Sculptor, Painter Dies Suddenly

Ask Single Board to Control Higher Education in Illinois

By LARRY KRAMP
Springfield, Ill., Jan. 22—(AP)—A single board to control all public education was proposed today as one of the five alternatives for improving the state tax-supported system of higher education in Illinois.

The five plans were drawn by a U. S. Office of Education survey staff headed by John D. Russell, director of the office's higher education division.

Would Eliminate Office
Eventual elimination of the state superintendent of public instruction post—which would require a constitutional amendment—was included in the single Illinois board plan. The superintendent now oversees elementary and secondary education.

The survey was undertaken at the request of Governor Stevenson, who asked the federal office to study ways of providing better control of Illinois higher education.

The Russell report said "maintenance of the present disjointed system is not considered as a possible alternative."

One-Year Study
Russell and five other U. S. education experts presented their plans after a year's study of controls existing over the six institutions.

They are the University of Illinois, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale; State Normal University, Normal; Western State College, Macomb; Northern State Teachers, DeKalb; and Eastern State Teachers, Charleston.

Three separate boards now divide control over them.

Governor Stevenson told the legislature earlier this month there is an "urgent need" for better overall administration. He said that "confusion and rivalry complicate just and wise decisions on appropriations and other legislation related to higher education."

One Russell report plan suggested that University of Illinois trustees be chosen by the governor, instead of being elected.

Normal University and Western, Eastern and Northern colleges are under a state teachers college board appointed by the governor.

Southern Illinois University was under the teachers board until 1949. Then the legislature created a special board for it, with the

Cites 'Confusion'
The report also cited "confusion" about Southern Illinois University's status.

As alternatives, the report presented these five plans for providing a coordinating authority:

1 Naming the present council on higher education, composed of the six institutions' presidents. The council now has only unofficial status.

2 Allowing the three present boards to continue in control but with some changes in their status and policies, mostly affecting civil service, purchasing, budgeting and their independence.

3 Allowing the three boards to remain but under the control of a state board of higher education.

4 Abolishing the three boards and setting up in their stead a state board of regents for higher education.

5 Creating a state board of education to supervise all public schools and to control them through the department of public instruction, with a commission of education possibly to succeed the state superintendent.

Russell and his five associates suggested that the state may wish to choose other alternatives made up of combinations taken from the plans presented.

Troop Debate Simmers Down To How Many?

By JACK BELL
Washington, Jan. 22—(AP)—The great troops-to-Europe debate appeared to be simmering down to one question: How many?

The answer may depend largely on what Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has to say when he returns at the end of the month from a pulse-taking tour of European capitals.

Taft Fights for Limit
In the meantime, Senator Taft (R-Ohio) threatened to carry to the senate floor his fight to limit the number of American troops in the European defense line.

Taft, who heads the Republican policy committee, said yesterday that he's willing to send some troops but he thinks this nation should depend for security on

PERFECT FLOOR For BASEMENTS

Colorful, Dry, low cost

Kentile is America's first choice for basement flooring because it is perfect in every single respect—even though it is one of the lowest cost floorings you can buy! It is the only type of flooring you should put on concrete in direct contact with earth because it isn't harmed by dampness or alkali. It's fireproof, too, and isn't marred by cigarette burns. It's virtually stainproof and is cleaned by simple mopping. It will wear indefinitely (is perfect after ten years service in Rockefeller Center corridors). All in all, Kentile has fourteen different advantages. Very important is the fact that it is laid tile by tile (not in sheets) and you can have any pattern or color combination you desire. We are experts on basement playrooms and will gladly give you (without any charge or obligation) advice on the designing and construction of your room, suggest possible floor patterns, submit estimates, etc. Call
